About Me

As a professional speaker since 2012, Tyler has had the privilege to present at over 1000 live events. He has spoken for hundreds of different organizations and companies ranging from Fortune 500 to small local businesses and a variety of associations. He has also been a Talent Management Consultant for Johns Hopkins University since 2016 where he enjoys teaching a regular schedule of workshops to help promote the growth and development of their employees. Tyler views each event as a unique opportunity to help his participants and therefore he has a reputation for being relatable, engaging, and delivering a high level of practical value.

Testimonial

"I have booked many keynote speakers for different events and had much success, but I cannot remember a time when people were still talking about a speaker two and three days later. Tyler made a significant impression on our group and truly enhanced the overall feel of our conference."
